The Honorable Joel T. Broyhill
U. S. House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Mr. Broyhill:

Thank you for your letter of 15 November 1957.

As you may know, I attended a meeting of the McLean Citizens Association on 14 November along with representatives from the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, the Virginia State Highway Commission, the National Capital Regional Planning Council, and the Bureau of Public Roads to discuss the impact of the location of the new Central Intelligence Agency headquarters building at Langley. At the meeting the Association passed a resolution which, as I understood it, provided for the appointment of a five-man Roads Committee whose duty it would be to insure, on behalf of the Association, that traffic problems would be minimized while the new building was under construction. During the discussion which led to this resolution the gentleman who sponsored it suggested that arrangements be made to have the Army Engineers construct a Bailey bridge across the Potomac River.

We are, of course, interested in and studying ways to minimize traffic problems during the construction period and welcome any suggestions on this subject. We will take this recommendation into account in our consideration of the total problem; however, we do not believe that it is feasible to come to any final conclusions until near the time we are about to award a contract for the building, which is now estimated to be sometime next summer.

Sincerely,

L. K. White
Deputy Director
